Bralno razumevanje

College Soccer in the USA

In the USA, some students go to college to play soccer. During the week, they study their academic subjects in the morning, and, in the afternoon, they practise their soccer skills. Then, in the evening, they do homework!

At the weekend, college soccer players never study because there are important games. They play in the afternoon, but they prepare in the morning, and sometimes they travel thousands of kilometres to games at other colleges.

American colleges don't give players money, but their lessons are often free.

College soccer is very popular in the USA. There are about 1,500 women's soccer teams and 1,400 men's teams, and, at some colleges, 5,000 people come to watch every match. That's a lot!

Are you good at soccer? Go to the USA. It's a fantastic place to play your favourite sport and to study, too.

soccer: football in American English
